Originally from Cleveland, Ohio, Larry has managed and participated in multiple federal and state trials to verdict on matters involving occupational/environmental exposures, products liability, medical devices, and pharmaceutical drugs. After litigating and helping to draft the national Settlement Agreement in In re: Sulzer Orthopedics at Weisman, Kennedy & Berris in Cleveland, Larry went on to work on the Bellwether trial team for various class-action MDLs, including In re: Welding Fume Products Liability Litigation, and In re: ASR Hip Implant Products Liability Litigation.

Before attending law school, Larry worked for the non-profit organization "Cleveland Works" which found full-time employment for welfare recipients and ex-offenders. Additionally, he served on the organization's Board of Directors. Larry is a licensed member of the Ohio and Georgia state bars, as well as the Northern District of Illinois. He was named to Kaleidoscope Magazine's 2007 class of "40-under-40" professionals.
